

The Explain-It Card

Skill sets your floor, explaining sets your ceiling. Turn one concept into one clean sentence.

THE STORY

Tesla died broke, Edison died rich

The gap wasn't genius. It was who could make it make sense.

The concept (from class, this week) _____

My one-sentence client version _____

Zero jargon words

If a word needs its own explanation, it doesn't belong in the sentence.

☐

One breath long

If you'd need to inhale twice, cut it in half.

☐

Ends on why it matters

A definition informs. A consequence lands.

The best model in the room loses to the clearest sentence in the room.
Genius needs a translator. Be both.
