

The $1,000 Starter Portfolio Map

Three themes you understand, one flyer, one habit. Type your amount and the split builds itself.

STEP 1 Three themes, 30% each

A theme is a sentence you can finish: people keep paying for cloud software.

STEP 2 Buy the basket, not the hero

An index fund or a two-stock pair per theme. You own the trend, not a ticker.

STEP 3 The 10% flyer

Sized so zero doesn't hurt. Its real return is attention.

STEP 4 Add on a date, not a feeling

Same amount, same date, same split. The habit is the asset.

My starting amount

$ _ _ _ _ _

Each of my three themes gets

= _ _ _ _ _

My flyer budget

= _ _ _ _ _

I can say each of my three themes in one sentence

If the sentence won't finish, you don't own the theme yet.

☐

My flyer can go to zero without changing my month

If zero would hurt, the flyer is too big.

☐

Own what you understand.

A starter portfolio is a learning machine. Every dollar in it teaches.

The first $1,000 teaches more than the next $10,000.
